St. Mary's Church was, until 1828, the only church in Cheltenham. It is a cruciform structure belonging to the 14th century, possessing a square tower with an octagonal spire, and a fine Rose window 15 feet in diameter. The building was carefully restored in 1880, and despite alterations and repairs, many interesting portions of old work are still extant.

(FOR ADDRESS ONLY.)

Dear Vic,

How is the weather at Cardiff, it is very cold here & freezing hard. Thank you for P.C. I did look out for you at Cardiff but I suppose you
